Nordic Concrete Federation Medal 2017 Terje F. Rønning, Norway

Reasons based on the statutes:

Terje Rønning has been a significant contributor to numerous Nordic cement and concrete activities over the last 20 years. He has been a vital force in the development of cement and binders, and is one of the Nordic region's foremost experts on frost resistance and alkali reactivity. He has been active in environmental activities that are of fundamental importance to the industry. He has worked long and hard to promote the interests and development of cement and concrete within in the construction industry.

Since 2001, he has held several chairman positions in significant and reputable European and Nordic industry organizations, committees and associations. He has also been the national delegate to various CEN, RILEM and other committees on cement and concrete regulations and standards.

Terje Rønning' s contribution to R&D, innovation, strategy and development of large concrete projects (e.g. COIN - the Concrete Innovation Center) cannot be underestimated. He is known to take an active stand and a balanced role in the forums in which he is represented. He has a broad vision and a deep knowledge platform, with a rare macro perspective related to the use of concrete in future buildings and civil engineering structures. His extensive network of European cement and concrete professionals is of great benefit to the Nordic building industry, and this has no doubt contributed to the importance of the region as a concrete knowledge base.

Terje Rønning has been

- one of the most important contributors in the NCF from 2002 and is it still.
- Member of RCNCF since 2002 and the chairman (in periods).
- Member of the NCF board in 2008 and 2009 and chairman of the board in 2010 and 2011.
- Editor for NCR in 2016.
